“ Amanda sheehan posted a condolence My friend Nicholas has just recently passed away and I now know the feeling his best friends were feeling. I had a few classes with Danny and we were friends, we talked all the time he told me about his tattoos. Danny needed someone smiles here and my friend nick was the happiest smiliest boy I know. He can put a smile on anyone's face just by walking in the room. I know nick is okay because he has someone like Danny with him and now I know Danny's is okay because nick is going to make him laugh so much. Danny along with nick is missed everyday and I'm very sorry for your loss, he moved to a distance we can't be right now but when we move to this place called heaven we will all be reunited, you're family is in prayers everynight

“ Robin Turner posted a condolence Our hearts were broken to learn of Daniel's passing. Although we did not have the privilege of knowing Daniel well, I learned from his mother Jackie of the passion that filled Daniel's life. Over the years, she would update me on the latest developments in his exciting busy life, and just a few months ago I met him for the first time. I was immediately touched by how he had transformed himself physically, and presented himself with such confidence, it was evident how close he had become with his Mom, and it made me happy to finally meet him, when he was feeling his best. Each condolence relays the beauty and light that his presence brought to this world. Emily Dickinson wrote of grief, "Unable are the loved to die. For love is immortality." How tragic that Daniel had to leave the ones he loved so early, but how lucky you are that you love him. Trust in the support of those around you and know that we are here for you in any way you need, whether small or large, whether now or later. Remember that you too are loved, and the love for Daniel continues on forever. Extending deep and heartfelt sympathy to you and your family. Your in my prayers... Love, Robin

I cannot even image what you must have been feeling or the pain of it. I know in my heart you are with Pop Pop in heaven in peace and love. Daniel I will always be proud of your love for others, your courageous and fearless battle for recovery and your intricate , delicate soul. Despite your struggles you were an honor student, a musician, composer and artist. Your childlike enjoyment of things like comic con, Dr Who, the hobbit and the lord of the rings. Star wars! You were enthralled with life, but struggled with an illness you could not . That is what really set you apcontrol. You were loved by so many. You leave a gaping hole in my life and my heart. And many others. I hope others will remember your sweetness, your humor and most of all your compassionate nature. You always knew empathy when others did not. You are now my angel for real. “ Paul Casanova posted a condolence Hello, words cannot express my sorrow over Daniel's passing. I am very fond of him and know, through our talks, that his spirit will not diminish despite this tragedy. In search of my own personal way of dealing with my sadness I posted a message on his FB wall and included it below. I hope you find comfort in knowing my thoughts. P

Heartbroken by your hastened exit from this mortal coil, I find comfort knowing your tenderness, creativity, thoughtfulness, generosity of spirit, and sincerity, will resonate in everyone you touched and wherever your soul navigates through a peaceful eternity. You wrote poems, and worked on advancing your music. You had a casual and stylistic flare for dressing and embraced a vivid imagination for fantasy fiction. Your guitar meant the world to you and poignant lyrics and melodies touched you most often... At a loss for words at your passing, I know that through your gentle and everlasting energy, I will find them again someday in a song and thank you for helping me complete them. Song writing after all was your next aspiration and I will have a warm thought that the recollection of our talks and lessons will inspire me, as it will others, to pass on the loving aura you so earnestly shared with everyone you encountered. r.i.p. sweet prince.
