“ My friendship with Dottie is a long and winding road that started many years ago. Fifty-six years ago, we started as neighbors, soon became friends and ended up as “family”. As such, we’ve shared all of life’s ups and downs, both happy and sad. We’ve celebrated birthdays and holidays, shared vacations and our children’s weddings. And, life being what it is, we’ve shared grief and sadness as well. We’ve laughed, we’ve cried, we’ve laughed until we cried. Oh, the fun we had along the way! The special bond we shared is forever and I will miss her dearly. I am comforted knowing she is no longer suffering and has been reunited with her loving husband, Ray.

To Michael, Paul, Raymond and Elizabeth: Grief has no timeline. Be patient with yourselves. Be patient with those you love and those who love you. Find joy in every day. Let memories of your mom bring a smile to your face even if it’s coupled with a tear in your eye. We grieve, because we have loved. Stay close and lean on each other when you need support. I truly believe we’ll meet again one day.
