“ dan ciarlariello posted a condolence I met Lou while he was doing a metallurgical Creep Fatigue study at the Con-Ed Hudson Avenue Station in Brooklyn while he was working for Stone and Webster and we immediately hit it off.

He told me he was raised in Brooklyn and we enjoyed the local flavor and had some laughs whilst doing the project. Surprisingly several years later, we had another encounter in Bangor Maine while he was consulting for a project I was working at General Electric. Another memorable experience as he went to college with the Admiral in charge of the Navy Nuclear project and and cleared up an issue like nobody else could.

Long story short, the engineer that was responsible for the project just shook his head in disbelief...

Today while going through some paperwork I came across his phone number and googled his name and discovered his obituary, strangely enough he passed on my birthday.

He will always be remembered as one of those special individuals that I will never forget both personally and professionally that made a difference in this world. My sincere condolences to the family and RIP Louie!

“ Allison posted a condolence I have nothing but fond memories of Louie. He was one of my mom's very close friends. He was one of a kind and like a fun uncle that would visit once a year. He always made an impression. I will forever remember him calling me "Passaguai" (which I believe refers to a little troublemaker) even until I was an adult! He loved to tease me about getting married and I'm grateful my husband got to meet him a few times. He loved dancing and Italian food. When he would visit him and my stepfather would stay up for hours enjoying Scotch and chatting. I will miss his annual visits and stories. I feel lucky to have known him. My heart goes out to his family.

“ Andrea Burke uploaded photo(s) Sending my condolences to Phillip, Patrick, Marie, Laurie and the rest of Louie’s family. Louie and I were coworkers/friends for over 40 years . He was a very giving and thoughtful man. I remember he refinished and lent me his family’s cradle when my daughter was born. I hope it is still in use by some member of his family. Lou enjoyed life and was always one of the first and last people on the dance floor. He was a great dancer. He was also very proud of his heritage. He took it personally when Italian national or local leaders were not performing to his standards. NY leadership drove him crazy and I remember taunting him about them these past few years. Food was another enjoyment of his. A trip to the North end in Boston or another fine Italian restaurant was a must when he visited. Pennsylvania is not noted for its Italian cuisine. He was a brilliant engineer and did consulting until about 10 years ago. He would probably still have been consulting if he could have done it manually and in person. Computers were his nemesis. He could carry on a lively conversation with anyone on any topic. I will forever miss hearing him say “hey Babes or Sweet Lips” to everyone . We always joked about how his innocent work place behavior would not be possible in today’s environment. He was one of a kind and I will miss him dearly
