

Michael J. Studer

July 24, 1978 - June 29, 2023

Michael Jason (M.J., Emjay) Studer, was born on July 24th, 1978 to Mary Frances Lawless Studer and Michael Thomas Studer. He lived a beautiful 44 years and, unknown to why, died on June 29, 2023.

Emjay shared most of his life with his beloved, Elizabeth. From high school to three children, their deep devotion carried through the hardest and most beautiful days.

Emjay's greatest pride and accomplishments were his three incredible children. Liam, his first son, has amazed him with his courage and authenticity which he brings to every corner of his life. Declan, his second son and mini-me, was his partner in all things sports (especially Yankees, Knicks, New York Football Giants), music, and Emjay-esque banter. And his baby girl, Matilda, who he described as "next level", before getting on the bus every morning would give her a kiss and say "You're a superstar- take what's yours."

Emjay was born three weeks late, on his father's birthday, to his dad's elation and his mom's relief. Their son, so deeply and unconditionally loved, brought them their best moments in life. Singing "Angel of the Morning" to his mom as a curly-haired toddler to watching The Godfather with his dad at five years old, he was their love, their life, their buddy.

His sisters, Kathy and Kristin, love him beyond measure.

His in-laws, Janet, Rich, Vicki, Ron, Tyler love him beyond measure.

His nieces, nephew, aunts, uncles, cousins, and many, dear friends love him beyond measure.

“ Mary Frances and Michael, I am just reading of the death of your son MJ. I was looking for hours of a friend's wake and was shocked and heart broken to read if MJ's death. Such a tragedy. I read Becca Stinson's thoughts and encourage you to read them again. Comforting to me and I hope to you both. Love Peggy O'Neill

“ *My Dear Studer Family,
Steve and I are deeply saddened for you all in the physical loss of MJ.
Though we only met him a couple of times, I felt I knew him through stories shared by Kristin, Tyler, Mary, Mike, Forest and Brooke. It's difficult to understand why God sometimes chooses to let certain things happen. I pray that in time, He will give each of you the acceptance and peace which each of you are so desperately seeking.
It's never easy to say goodbye to the physical presence of a loved one in your life, especially when it's so unexpected. However, I have come to KNOW my loved ones are still very much with me, just in a way I'm unable to comprehend due to my human nature.
I pray that you each will come to this same knowledge- that MJ is still with you, watching, guiding, loving, and sharing your joys, sorrows, challenges and successes, as I have come to experience in strange ways with my own departed loved ones, who now reside in God's loving light.
May you be healed from your deep sorrow and in time, find peace and treasure in the memories you each have of MJ with a smile or laugh, even with a tear or two, knowing the greatest of blessings, love, is and always will be there.
I love you ALL
