“ Fay Wright posted a condolence Ty was my cousin. He was a little older so he wasn't one of my “hanging out” cousins. But he was one of the best cousins one could have. He was the best because he was fun-loving and great to be around. He was the best because growing up, he treated this cousin like a kid sister . . . always, always finding something to tease me about until I burst out with laughter. He was a cousin that left me with fond memories that I will always cherish. Rest In Peace, my cousin. Cousin Fay

“ Rich Brennen posted a condolence Ty was the first Christian man I met who walked the Christian life. He always made me feel welcome and helped me to understand what being a godly man meant. I will miss our runs to Tammy & Johnny's restaurant and our Thanksgiving Day rounds of golf. I will also never forget the “Wait for your name” life lesson and the humorous lesson he taught me with a fork—we laughed about that lesson many times. I will miss the way he smiled and laughed when sharing a funny story. Rest well.

“ Calvin Marshall posted a condolence I will always remember Tyrone and my uncle big Calvin for all there many visits to Virginia as a kid growing up in Wattsville, Va. many years ago his smile and laughter always. I always loved seeing him and all my uncles his father Uncle Johnny, uncle Reggie, uncle Milton, uncle Harry, ant Katie, ant Jean and the cutting up/teasing they all would do with my 'GrandPop' Theodore. Those were the mightiest times of my life and I never realized how valuable that time was. As one of my favorite cousin "Randolph 'Flu' would say "you here today and gone tomorrow/someone's missing". Tyrone, rest in peace and thanks for all those memories.
