“ *Glenda Jarrette lit a candle Tribute to Valroy
To think of Valroy is to think of strength. He had a strong laugh, strong walk, and boy a strong mind. You think of something strong..... Yes that too!!
On one of his visits to Trinidad, we partied in a Christmas parang lime. You should have seen his flashy shirt and shiny shoes he loved to dance and that he could. He danced with almost every lady at the party. We surely had a happy evening.
On a visit to the Queen's Park Oval he was the live wire of the cricket game. The fans asked him to be sure to return for the whole series in those stands.
We loved our visits to Long Islands in the Summer, his new arrangements of his bridge over his fishes, the indoor aviary. And Oh the blooming flowers adorning the edges of the front lawn. This and more was Valroy.
May he rest in Peace and Rise in Glory.
Love
Merle, Glenda and all the Family*

“ Neil White uploaded photo(s) Uncle Valroy "The Elder," although you're no longer here with us physically we continue to think about you often, remembering the good times shared, chats on the daily commute to the Bronx (Summer of 1988), the loud laugh, the twinkle in your eye that accompanied the tall story or controversial statement. We remember the love and kindness showed to the family that you were proud to be part of. Your memory lives on, I will never forget you. Love, Neil “ Cherise uploaded photo(s) Even though I only got to meet you as an adult, you immediately embraced me as part of your family! Your long lost niece you would say. To everyone who knew him, he opened his heart, home and of course his insane bar collection to the ones he held dear. I will miss the late night talks over coffee at the kitchen and the rapports about any topic under the sun that always ended in a hearty laugh that resounded through the household. My uncle and aunt who stood by my side at graduation - a memory that is always etched in my heart. A beautiful, fun, sharing, peaceful soul was lost and he will be missed terribly.

“ Iva Nixon uploaded photo(s) From our Very 1st encounter at a Family gathering at Wendy's, Valroy was always the Man of The Hour to me. One of my fondest memories will always be 3 years ago after my Father passed away. Myself, Wendy and a couple of other friends went to Sunday Brunch which was Fathers Day. Valroy accompanied Wendy, and knew this would be my 1st Father's Day without my Dad. Valroy told me, Not To Worry. I Could Borrow Him For That Day. I don't know if he truly knew how much that meant to me. But I am forever Grateful for that very simple, but Kind and Loving gesture. My prayer is that the Family of Valroy White continue to Celebrate this Wonderful and Kind Man. May his Legacy forever Live. Wendy, Valerie and The Entire White Family. My Sincerest Condolences To You All “ Sandra Roberts lit a candle Uncle Valroy, who am I going to argue with now? We argued about everything yet we shared a bond like no other. You would always say “ you can’t vex with your Uncle Valroy” and you would laugh that hearty deep down belly laugh, hugging me tight. I missed that laugh in recent times and asked you so often what happened, to which you always replied “nothing man, ah good”. Now I know! I will always remember you as that person who embraced me as your own and looked for me when my daily visits did not happen. Thank you for being a part of my life. May you be welcomed into the heavenly realm with the words we all long to hear “welcome my good and faithful servant, welcome.” R.I.P.
